

University of New Hampshire
Education Department

$$$$
for Spring 2010
courses

Everybody teaches,
ELL Co-op:

The English Language Learning & Teaching
Professional Development Cooperative
of New Hampshire

Everybody learns

ELL Co-op is a federally funded multi-year project designed to improve the academic achievement of all K-12 English language learners in New Hampshire by creating a comprehensive and coordinated network of professional development opportunities and resources for education professionals across the state.

ELL Co-op provides financial support for prospective and practicing teachers pursuing ESOL certification and/or who are interested in taking course work that will better prepare them for working with English language learners. Courses may be taken at the University of New Hampshire at the Durham or Manchester campus.

Next semester - Spring 2010 Courses!

Certified teachers who are interested in pursuing the M.Ed. in Teacher Leadership and who would like ESOL to be their concentration are eligible for funding.

For more information about ELL Co-op contact:
judy.sharkey@unh.edu

For information regarding tuition reimbursement for ESOL certification courses, contact Pam Burbank (603-641-4163; pamela.burbank@unh.edu)